

Ashley Madison Website Hacked

AMERICAN VOICES

July 21, 2015

VOL 51 ISSUE 29

Opinion

Hackers have reportedly stolen personal information from all 37 million users of Ashley Madison, a website for arranging extramarital affairs, and are threatening to release all the data unless the site is shut down, a protest against Ashley Madison's policy of charging users to remove their accounts but secretly retaining their credit card records. What do you think?

"Thank God I didn't give my wife my real name."

Harvey Weil • SYSTEMS ANALYST

"This could set back infidelity in the U.S. two hours."

Stefan Kolkowski • DENIM DISTRESSER

"This is great for any user whose sexual fantasy is being used as a pawn in a high-stakes game of corporate blackmail."

Jillian Armand • STENOGRAPHY INSTRUCTOR